Regarding claim(s) 2 and 6, Onken discloses an alert system for requesting service of a machine wherein said transmitter leaves a voice-mail message with an answering system when transmitting said voice messages (column 7, lines 23-34).

Regarding claim(s) 3 and 7, Onken discloses an alert system for requesting service of a machine further comprising a clock connected to said trigger, said trigger sending said voice messages corresponding to machine event at predetermined times of the day (column 7, lines 23-34).

Regarding claim(s) 5, Onken discloses a method of requesting service of a machine (column 1, lines 18-26) comprising the steps of:

providing an alert system including a machine sensor for detecting machine event, a recorder storing one or more pre-recorded voice messages, the voice messages corresponding to machine event, a transmitter for transmitting the voice messages over the public switched telephone network (column 5, lines 20-34); and
